

BEACONS OF

When it seemed that night
had swallowed the day
and darkness knocked at every door,
a few decided to become the light.

Like beacons of hope they shine.
Their phones find beds for patients,
their kitchens feed the homeless,
and their hearts worry for strangers
like their own family.

They don't bow before despair,
nor let others succumb to disease.
Regular folks doing extraordinary deeds.
If you know such heroes,
do share their tales with us.
They're the light this dark world needs.

To share stories,
log on to www.toibeaconsofhope.com

Hope Partner

WT.5017.2021